Ipod Interface

The interface kit for iPod uses a proprietary 30-pin Apple iPod connector via connection point in the glove compartment to provide a direction connection from an iPod to the vehicle head unit, allowing the driver to control the iPod using either the steering pad or audio system controls.

Requires audio head unit to be satellite ready. Some premium audio units have embedded XM and conflict with the iPod Interface kit. Either iPod or Sat Radio can be installed, not both. If the iPod Interface kit is connected, then the AUX input jack should be used with the iPod player.
